The Foreword

In a graphic presentation of high school experience and memories, the 1940 Murivian offers a fuller meaning to the modern sense of cooperative, democratic activity.

To the reader, then, we present the opportunity to gain a more comprehensive understanding of the ideals adhered to in the constructive development of a student body.

Mirrored in the 1940 Murivian is a record of the students and administration of Brookline High School, which represents industry, coordination, and harmony, all of which contribute to its desired goal—the perfect democracy.

Acknowledgments

MR. WILLIAM L. SNOW

After forty years of zealous endeavor, Mr. William Snow, accompanied by the deep admiration of students and faculty alike, retires from active participation in the work of the school.

Mr. Snow was graduated from Wesleyan University in 1894, receiving the degree of A.B. Later, he was awarded his A.B. and M.A. degrees from Harvard University.

We are indebted to Mr. Snow, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, for the establishment and supervision of our honorary society, Alpha Pi, and for his inspirational guidance of the Latin department. As a teacher, Mr. Snow's indomitable spirit, magnetic personality, broad education and experience have imparted to his students his enthusiasm and enjoyment for the classics.

Mr. Snow's great knowledge of the masters of literature reflects the culture and gentility belonging to the classics.

MR. JOHN E. CORCORAN

During our Freshman year at High School, we of Packard House were especially fortunate to be under the guiding hand of Mr. John Corcoran. His willing help and understanding inspired a fine beginning to our high school careers.

Mr. Corcoran, a true son of Brookline, is now principal at the Pierce School where all who work with him respect his fine judgment.

Members of this year's graduating class appreciate the invaluable encouragement rendered them and remember with pleasure their first year at Brookline High School.

FACULTY

TO FORM A MORE PERFECT UNION

WILFRED H. RINGER

Headmaster

Today is a period of seeming confusion. If you and I follow the ordinary course, we shall permit ourselves to believe that all roads to advance have been closed to us. Such a conclusion can but make us untrue to our trust.

Today is also a time of greatest optimism. Opportunities which are now ours may never come again. Your high school has kept one great ideal constantly before you — the teaching that there is always a place in life for the young man and young woman to whom education has been an experience in THINKING. Never has the world been so much in need of intelligent reasoning. If your training has given you the power to master new problems, it has also given you a firm hold on life itself. The test is in your ability to discriminate between the true and the false values.

Thorough scholarship is a province in which one's place is EARNED. Nothing worthwhile is to be had merely for the asking. Today the field of exploration lies in human endeavor. To wish for success and happiness is not to win them. Thorough scholarship means brains that are qualified to think beyond their present store of facts. Insist upon your knowledge assuring you of an opportunity. Then THINK, REASON and WORK your way to the top!

My best wishes go to each of you.

MISS MARY W. SAWYER

Dean of Girls

My cordial greetings to the Class of 1940! Life is made up of challenges. You had scarcely entered Brookline High School when you were challenged by the emergency of the Fire. Since then you have met countless challenges successfully. Now you are being graduated to take your places in a world which demands the best you have to offer. To keep that standard will not be easy in the conflicting currents of present day life; anything less than your best will not be enough. Certainly fateful days are ahead in which you must play your part — a part for which the Brookline High School has tried to give you training and inspiration. In the words of the poet, of the best and finest that life can offer. It is what you have in your heart and what you see that counts.

“After it, follow it,
Follow the gleam,”

My best wishes go with you all as you go forth to answer the challenge of the days ahead!

Brookline School Committee

Row I—Miss Adams (Secretary), Mr. Caverly (Supt. of Schools), Mr. Hills (Chairman), Mrs. Baker

MR. HILLS

MR. CAVERLY

The Brookline School Committee is subject in all cases to the public will. Elected by the people of Brookline, the group consists of citizens bred in the town life who work for the people by insuring a sound and honest school system in Brookline. It is not a tool of invisible government, for its actions in session are always subject to public hearing. The School Committee is a government of, for, and by the citizens.

The duties of the Committee are far-reaching and significant. The members decide on new teachers, create school appropriations which are in turn considered by Town Meeting members, and determine school policy in general. Majority vote rules. The excellence of the Brookline High School building is due in a large measure to the School Committee efforts.

For some years we have been well aware of the better guidance by the house plan at Brookline High School. This was designed by the School Committee to better the school system. Further broadening of the educational program is evident in the appropriations given for the radio broadcasts of the past two years which have been presented over both national and international hookups.

If the purpose of democratic government is to obtain a happier condition, the School Committee of Brookline has not failed in its purpose.

Murivian Committee

If a candid camera clicked in your face (or, more often, behind your back), or if a student approached you for information about a club or other organization, you shouldn't have been alarmed—it was only the Murivian Committee at work. Members of the Committee knew nothing about the eight hour day, for once they got going, nothing could stop them. Inspired by the faculty advisers, Mr. Williams and Mr. Blanchard, the Layout

Committee tried to organize the school activities to the best possible advantage while the Write-up Committee went to work digging up the facts about the activities. A great deal of credit is due the advertising staff for the splendid piece of work they did in gathering advertisements. The clerical end was handled by the typists. All groups worked in coordination to present to you the 1940 Murivian.

Linscott, Atlas, Hibbard, Dopp

Senior Class Officers

In order to form a more perfect union and promote the general welfare of Packard House, the Class of 1940 elected George Hibbard, Margaret Dopp, Dorothy Atlas, and Eloise Linscott as President, Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer respectively. President Hibbard guided the ship of state for the entire perilous four years and brought it to a safe harbor. The Vice President distinguished herself in all phases of school activity as did the Secretary and Treasurer. In practice, the officers executed their duties to the utmost of their ability in furthering democracy at Brookline High School.

Prom Committee

Under the expert guidance and high power salesmanship of Jim Shanahan, the Senior Prom was planned for May 29, music to be styled by "Chappie" Arnold in the Driscoll Casino. Assisting this human dynamo were such distinguished personalities as Shirley Gordon, Harriet Wolfson, Marjorie Hutchins, Marjorie Tice, Alfred Stearn, Buddy Cavallo, and Joe Gordon.

Gift Committee

Robert Feinberg was chosen to head the Committee for choosing a gift to be presented to Brookline High School by the Class of 1940. Members of the Committee included Lois Phillips, Gertrude Kramer, Bertha Kennedy, Phyllis Orlick, Robert Carroll, George Flessas, and Vincent Lally.

Ring and Pin Committee

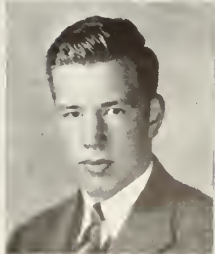

Purchasing a ring or pin as a memento of high school days has long been the practice of students at Brookline High School. To help in the selection of styles, Hayden Ringer was appointed chairman of the Ring and Pin Committee, the other members being Louise Ginsburg, Faith Wilson, Helen Paine, George Hibbard, and Marvin Gasster. A new creation appreciated by the girls was a mother-of-pearl link bracelet with the emblem of the school superimposed on it.

Class Day Committee

To bid a final farewell to Brookline High School, an annual Class Day was staged by the whole school. This year, the event was planned by an able senior committee composed of Jeanne Newman, Janet Andersen, Claire Caverly, Elizabeth Peabody, Eloise Linscott, Margaret Dopp, Anne Chamberlain, Earle Hoffman, George Hibbard, Malcolm Katz, William Herwitz, and David Feingold, with Edward Gill acting as chairman of the group.

Excerpts from the Class Day Oration

JAMES L. SHANAHAN

CLASSMATES:

Solon once compared audiences to the sea and orators to the wind. "For," said he, "the sea lies calm and quiet, unless the wind disturbs it."

In the truth of this statement lies my own peril. Other speakers have stirred you with words of eloquence and lashed the sea into rolling waves. Realizing my efforts must result in mere ripples, I fear to entrust myself to those waves of expectation which past class orators have created.

Classmates, it is within our power to set our course on a rough and angry sea or on calm and placid waters. For as long as human beings must dwell on this earth together, they will live in constant strife and disagreement or in mutual accord and satisfaction. Man has long dreamed of a harmonious society and he named this dream "Democracy." The purpose of this democracy is not to regulate and control man but to formulate his loyalty and develop initiative so that he will cease destroying his fellow man, and will band together with him in peaceful unity. By practicing the simple virtues of sincerity and fairness and by cultivating the spirit of helpfulness, we can rebuild an harmonious society which shall have the unselfish and cooperative characteristics of the original code upon which our nation was founded.

Our democracy was based on fortitude, perseverance, and cooperation. Our early leaders did not gain their positions of leadership through force, but through their unselfish devotion to the welfare of the sovereign people.

Our Government gave promise to promote justice and happiness and to allow no barrier of class distinction to separate our people. Have we succeeded in carrying out their intention? A casual glance would tend to make one believe we have; for have we not grown from a young struggling nation into a strong world power?

But let us examine our government more closely.

Upon careful scrutiny we find evidences of political and social corruption threatening us. The privilege of suffrage has been greatly mistreated. Necessary laws have been neglected, while selfish measures have been railroaded through our legislatures. Justice has been displaced by greed, and happiness superseded by grief and hatred.

How did our country get into this deplorable condition? Have its citizens become less vigilant? Have they allowed themselves through indifference or ignorance to be hoodwinked by the smooth phrases and empty promises of unscrupulous self-seekers? Shall we say that the dream of democracy has failed? No!

Classmates, let us arise from this lethargy and face our duty as citizens of a nation founded upon high ideals. Let us resolve to support and develop those ideals. We can turn back the tide of corruption. The time has come when every young man and woman must recognize this task as an individual responsibility, a responsibility which requires consecration to the "IDEALS OF DEMOCRACY."

The nation calls for youth of clean hands and pure hearts; youth with courage to face the future; youth who will never fail to respond to the call of their country.

Let us here highly resolve to dedicate our lives to carrying out the ideals of the founders and saviors of our nations, that these men shall not have lived in vain.

President's Address

Classmates:

Tonight we meet for the last time in the gay comradeship which we have enjoyed for the past four years. The joys of accomplishment are mingled with the sorrows of leaving such carefree days. Above all sentiments stands our heartfelt gratitude to those who have made these days possible,—our parents, the School Committee, the Administration of our School, the Faculty and the Coaches.

As we stand on the pinnacle of our High School days and look back over our past four years, there is much of which to be proud. Our class has been well represented in the Honorary Society. We have seen our athletic teams rise from mediocrity to two championships. Over this rejoicing, there is but one shadow cast—our responsibility to our Country and to ourselves.

Past Class Orators and Class Presidents have spoken of the troubled times which await us in the world. Never has one spoken with more truthfulness and sincerity than I do tonight. For we are entering a world where certain maniacs seem to have forgotten the very fundamentals of civilization. Within the past three months, we have seen country after country engulfed in that legalized slaughter called War. As we marched out on the field today, it seemed hard to understand that in Europe fellows of the same age were marching in the same manner—only they carry guns and are training to kill and to be killed. Our fathers fought "to make the World safe for Democracy"—we may yet be called upon to perform the same task. So tonight, as we go on divergent paths, I charge you to remember your responsibility to God and your Country.

My very best wishes to you all.

Class Poem

GEORGE H. FLESSAS

EACH TILLER OF THE SOIL

Behold the farmer plowing in his field.

With sweating brow he plods behind his steed,

As day by day, steadfast, he plants his seed,

And dreams of the reward his work will yield.

The tender plants by Mother Earth once sealed,

Spring forth in spite of drought, in spite of weed,

To thrive and grow as by some Power decreed.

The golden, yellow harvest stands revealed.

The harvest by, he pauses, rests awhile.

And turning slowly then unto the West,

He gazes at the distant, setting sun.

Across his broad, tanned face there steals a smile,

"The day has passed. I did my very best."

With eyes upraised, "Behold, my task is done."

Last Will and Testament

Know all men by these presents, that we, the late class of 1940 of B. H. S. (and we do mean late—especially L. Bob Scott) in the town of Brookline of Norfolk County, in the commonwealth of Massachusetts, leave, by the grace of God, both our beloved Alma Mater and this, our last will and testament.

1. We leave to Mr. Webber, Miss Liden, and our former house master Mr. Corcoran, our most sincere thanks for their untiring efforts in successfully guiding us toward our goal.

2. Captain Gill leaves to the succeeding captain of marshals his technique in tracking down those ruthless culprits who insist upon dashing their papers upon the floor.

Naughty! Naughty!

3. Jim Shanahan leaves with the fond memories of Barbara Kadetsky. What a pair!

4. We leave to the de-icers, Peggy Smith, Eleanor Rice, Madeleine Hennessy and Co. the bill for the fire extinguishers used on the poor souls who burned up just thinking about them.

5. We leave to the lower classmen the ever-peaceful lunchroom, where you leave with your heart in your mouth, and your teeth in your pocket.

6. We leave a helpful hint by Confucius, "When attacked by bull and bear at same time, shoot bear—can throw bull any old time."

7. George Hibbard leaves his fine leadership and executive ability to Vincent Leahy, with the hope that he will maintain the high standards we have tried to keep.

8. We leave to the library an instructive and entertaining group of books;

1. Strange Cargo ... Pockets of the lunchroom staff
2. Strange Interlude ... Dick Cubilewich
3. Ab! Wilderness ... Jake Indursky
4. Watch for the Dawn ... Larry Hickey
5. It Takes All Kinds ... Larry Feinstein
6. Far From the Madding Crowd ... Max Montgomery
7. Love's Labor Lost ... Joe Hyams
8. Atoms in Action ... Joe Sutherland
9. My Son, My Son ... Sherman Daniels
10. Mein Kampf ... David Feingold

9. We leave George Hibbard 500 rounds of ammunition to strengthen his blockade around the Navy Yard, and to aid further in his pocket battleship maneuvers.

We the undersigned, elect Mr. Harold M. Bates as executor to the Will, hoping he will not aspire to such heights that we may find a similar document a necessity.

In Testimony whereof, we, the class of 1940, have signed, established, and ordained this our last will and testament, being sound in mind and body, and after having duly recompensed the Reilly Funeral Home for services rendered.

10. Winnie Rubin leaves her naive and wholesome personality to some bashful freshman looking for a ride home.

11. CENSORED!!!!

12. Frank Kelly leaves—in due time.

13. We leave the school with two state championships, a fine tribute to Coaches Downes and Bates, with best wishes for a repetition of them both.

14. Jimmy Argus, Phil Duggan, and George Harris leave the players' bench,—something they did very seldom during the football season.

15. We leave Roy Milbury still on the way to the dentist—it's usually a case of tooth-hurty at one-thirty.

16. Gene Spector leaves as the state champion in the broad jump with 10'2". Long— isn't it?

17. Each of the following leaves his favorite song to the Hit Parade of the season:

1. All the Things You Are ... Ken Monteith
2. Playmates ... Jimmy Kelly and Margie Tice
3. How Strange ... Noel Seicol
4. Two O'Clock Jump

18. Captains Carroll, Gulley, Kirrairie, and Jim Kelly leave Good Ole' B. H. S., much to Newton's relief.

19. Ted Porosky leaves triumphantly, having finally got Weiss to himself.

20. Ann Linderman leaves Bud Smith on account—on account of Annie doesn't go there any more.

21. We leave Brookline High School armed with knowledge in place of guns, and thanking God that our last four years have been spent dodging exams instead of bullets.

Class History

On September 13, 1936, we of the class of 1940 entered these hallowed halls determined to set the place on fire with our mighty deeds. Evidently the deeds were mighty, indeed, for not two weeks later the venerable old tower building burned to the ground.

After this "glowing" tribute, we settled down to study, directed to our classrooms by the marshals. But it wasn't long before we started telling the marshals where to go.

In our first election, George Hibbard, Nancy Wyeth, Dorothy Atlas, and Shirley Gordon were elected President, Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer respectively. In our second year the only change in officers saw Margaret Dopp take over the Vice Presidency. In '39 this same quartet, unhampered by any third-term scruples, did a repeat performance. Feeling that George Hibbard has the "widest background" to fill amply the Presidential Chair, we selected him as graduating class president, with Peggy Dopp, Dot Atlas, and Eloise Linscott as running mates.

It was in the field of sports that '40 rose to its greatest heights. This may well be called the "Golden Era" for Brookline. The football team suffered a tough loss at the hands of Newton in 1938. However, "time wounds all heels," and Newton got it in the neck, 20-6, in '39. This game climaxed a brilliant season in which Brookline was crowned Class B champions of the state. Bob Carroll and Leo Gulley were co-captains. Kirrane, Montgomery, Hibbard, and Harris in the line, and Sutherland, Jim Kelly, and Smyrniotis in the backfield, were standouts.

The hockey team, starting up from where the football team left off, won the Eastern Massachusetts Championship, paced by "Gundy" Kirrane and Leo Gulley. "Jock" Sutherland, "Babe" Driscoll, the Georges Powers and Hibbard, Bill Jellison, and Jim Drohan were other stellar performers.

The basketball team, by beating Newton for the first time within memory, had a successful season. Tom Devlin and Bob Mooney were co-captains, while Jim Kelly, Jim Argus, Lou Stoia, Bob Kaplan, and Vin Lally sunk their share of baskets.

Ed Gill captained the track team for which Shanahan, Fillman, Davin, Feingold, and Spector gained many points.

As we go to press, the baseball team is winning consistently behind the steady pitching of "Duke" Mason, the fielding of shortstop "Jock" Sutherland, and the hitting of Captain Jim Kelly. Bob Carroll, last year's captain, Bob Jacobs, Vin Lally, "Babe" Driscoll, Leo Gulley, and Tom O'Connor were other diamond aces.

Sylvia Schwamb led the girls' hockey team which continued that grand old custom of beating Newton.

Departing from sports, Margaret Dopp was chosen Head Marshal for Class Day in '39 with Janet Andersen as her chief aide.

The Girls' League officers from our class for the last two years were Beth Peabody, President; Louise Ginsburg and Eloise Linscott holding other offices.

Those who availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing Prize Speaking were rewarded by the excellent elocution emanating from the eloquent lips of Norman Stearns who copped the prize.

Alpha Pi at its last three meetings saw an unprecedented number of erudite scholars mount the platform to accept their pins. George Hibbard was President and Claire Caverly, Vice President by virtue of their high rankings.

Ed Gill, the head of the marshals, and his faithless followers, wearing the red and blue bands, engaged in many heated debates over the lunchroom situation.

Bob Feinberg meted out punishments as Chief Justice of the Court of Justice for the past year.

If you don't mind (and we know you don't) we will proceed to conclude this document and to seclude ourselves—with an irate mob of graduates, whose names we left out of this alleged history, after our scalps.

LINCOLN HOUSE COUNCIL

The five-year itinerary of Lincoln House began anew this year with Mr. Totman ably acting as housemaster. After the returns were received from the initial election held in March, the council was set for action with Raymond Barnstone as president of Lincoln House. Incidentally, the new procedure of nominating officers used in this election is particularly noteworthy.

Each member of the house eligible and desirous of running for an office took out a nomination paper. The prospective nominees then had to secure signatures on these papers, the number of signatures varying with the office desired — those wishing to run for president and vice-president needed three signatures from ten different home rooms, and those wishing to run for secretary-treasurer, or representative to the school council needed two signatures from as many different home rooms. Since there are only fourteen home rooms in Lincoln House and no person could endorse his name to the paper of more than one competitor for the same office, there was no fear of having too many nominees. From then on the election was conducted as usual, with Arthur Quinzani, John Cox, Irving Gould and Marvin Geller emerging victors for the other offices of vice president, secretary-treasurer and representative to the school council, respectively.

At its organization meeting, the council accomplished a great deal. It discussed and settled the age-old but necessary question of dues, of which it was reminded by the annual freshman payment to the Murivian. Also, a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution.

Thus with seeming energy and enthusiasm, the members of this council opened the new Lincoln House road to democracy.

ROBERTS HOUSE

ROBERTS HOUSE COUNCIL

The government of this year's sophomore house has successfully carried out its duties under the leadership of president Jack Dreyfuss. Meetings of the house council were held on the average of every two or three weeks which seems correct in proportion to the amount of work accomplished, for the Roberts House Council was by no means resting idle.

Four important and industrious committees were appointed—the first, to investigate possible house expenditures through graduation in order to regulate the amount of yearly dues; the second, to discuss and fix the amount for this year's dues; the third, to draw up a preliminary constitution for the approval of the council, and then the entire house; and the fourth, to make plans for a house assembly.

The Constitution Committee had each representative to the council discuss in his respective home room such matters as standing around in the corridors and careless paper tossing in the lunchroom so as to obtain a wide scope of ideas on those everyday but important topics. This manner of dealing with these subjects aided the committee greatly in drawing up the final form of the constitution.

The Assembly Committee made complete arrangements for an April house gathering. This assembly will serve as a test for a possible three or four Roberts House Assemblies next year.

In so carrying out these many duties, the Roberts House Council has proved its efficacy.

SHAILER HOUSE

SHAILER HOUSE COUNCIL

The Shailer House Council hospitably commenced its duties this year by acquainting the new Shailer House students with the school.

Among its other accomplishments was the appointing of committees. The main purpose and thought behind this was that if people have something to do for their school, they will take a greater interest in it. The committees were appointed and their duties were as follows: the Lookout Committee, to be on the watch for any loose ends that needed tying up for the improvement of Shailer House; the Social Committee, to be in charge of Shailer's social activities; the Absence and Tardy Committee, to promote good attendance as well as to see that students enter their home rooms as early as possible in the mornings; the Publicity Committee, to report to the members of the house the actions of the council; the Dance Committee, to plan for the Junior Prom; the Assembly Committee, to make arrangements for a Shailer Auditorium period; and a committee of four to draw up a new constitution.

Class dues were settled, and the council decided to issue to the members of the house lists which would explain where their money would go.

The feminine detachment of the Shailer House Council, in collaboration with that of Packard House, gave a very successful Mothers' Tea, at which the mothers were given an opportunity to discuss electives with Miss Sawyer, the Shailer Housemaster.

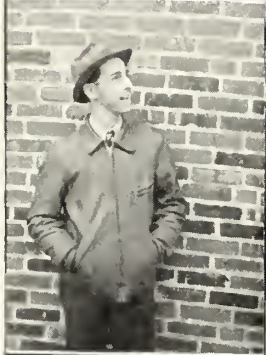

All in all, the House Council of Shailer House, working together with Miss Sawyer and Vincent Leahy, the president, has greatly succeeded in raising its members and the house as a whole to higher standards.

MISS POLAND

PACKARD HOUSE COUNCIL

Owing to the fact that the former Packard House officers were elected for graduating class officers, the Packard House Council unfortunately did not meet for the first half of the year. After an election determined Ed Meehan the new president, the council was again ready to function. Incidentally, in this election the members of Packard House had the honor of being the first to use one of the new voting machines purchased by the Town of Brookline this year.

According to usual procedure, the council discussed and settled the problem of dues with main regard towards expenses for graduation. A unique idea for collecting these dues was evolved: The first week of collecting dues was called "bargain week," in which the dues were five cents less than any week thereafter. Among the council's other accomplishments was a successful after-school social in the lunchroom. This social served as an appetizer for the Senior Prom, also arranged by the council.

The government of Packard House, the largest house council in the school, and the only one which both homeroom chairmen and vice-chairmen attend, has efficiently carried out its duties under the supervision of Mr. Webber, the housemaster.

MISS LIDEN

AKERS HOUSE

The Akers House Council has swung into action this year under the inspiring and fiery leadership of James Shanahan, nobly aided and abetted by George Harris, Vice President, Robert Scott, Secretary, and Theodore Porosky, Treasurer. Miss Liden, as Housemaster, has widely guided the Council and her understanding of the pupils has helped to form a closer bond between the faculty and students of Akers House. The motto of the House is "vestigia milla retrorsum," and the House is proud to bear the name of Winfred C. Akers, who was for twenty-seven years the beloved headmaster of Brookline High School.

This year, Akers House was featured in an assembly which was more than enjoyed by Packard House. All the talent was displayed including vocalists, pianists, and even a harpist.

The Council has done much for the school in the way of improvement, and the hope of the Council is that next year's Akers House will carry on the good work .

Turn over, Shakespeare! Dot Atlas is calling to order another meeting of the English Club. Boasting one of the largest memberships of any society in the school, the English Club has presented many interesting programs this year. Upon consulting Norman Stearns, Program Chairman, and Eloise Linscott, Sec.-Treas., we find included on the calendar for the year a most enjoyable talk by the manager of the Copley players.

An especially popular feature of the English Club was the Literary Group which was formed for members seeking further information on subjects brought up at the regular meetings. Books were reviewed and avidly discussed pro and con. Several aspiring poets presented their work to the delight of the entire group.

The cooperation between the English faculty and club members produced some memorable meetings. The dues of the club are slight; the return is most valuable.

With a program similar to that of the past few years, the French Club carried on under the leadership of Evelyn Ferngold as President and Sue Rogers as Secretary-Treasurer. The usual twenty or thirty interested members attended the meetings and the faculty advisers were greatly surprised at the sudden enlargement of the Club when it came time for Murivian pictures to be taken. Nevertheless, the Club held some interesting as well as educational programs. Among these were presentations of French plays, singing of songs in French, as well as speeches on various French personalities. An unusual feature of the French Club's work was the filling of bags for evacuated French children. Miss Chamberlain and others of the French department served as faculty advisers to the organization. Along with the entire school, the French Club mourned the death of Miss Gambrill, who had been for so long one of its most enthusiastic leaders.

GERMAN CLUB

The history of the German Club goes far back into the dear days beyond recall. Write-ups about the various functions of the Club can be found in the Sagamore of 1911. Year after year, the German Club has endeavored to uphold the fine cultural standing to which its members are pledged. There are usually five or six meetings a year in which the programs are of a varied nature. This year the German Club has visited one of the well-known Boston museums, and another meeting was held in the "Schwedische Kaffee Stuhl" in Sudbury. The Christmas party boasted outside musical entertainment. The Club, ably supervised by Herr Friedland, has as its officers Herbert Ellis, President, Robert Ehrmann, Vice President, Rod Prendergast, Secretary, and Charles Raligh, Treasurer.

SPANISH CLUB

Habla espanol? They can and they do and what fun they have! What! Don't you understand Spanish? Come to the Spanish Club meetings and be democratic in a truly Spanish manner. With Senorita Placido as faculty adviser and the help of Miss Wood, it's easy to say "Si, si."

Sara Jean Ferguson leads the meetings and Olga Naranjo, Janet Ray, and Josephine Coradeschi, the other club officers, make the friendly informal meetings into a fiesta with Spanish music, games and dances. The only features remaining truly our own American—without even Spanish sauce—was the annual hot-dog picnic at Cedar Hill.

During the year, the Spanish Club had guest speakers, fascinating pictures, and a Pan American pageant.

DEBATING SOCIETY

"Can the affirmative deny that?" rang loud and clear upon numerous occasions for our master debaters. "Jack of all trades" Norm Stearns, was president with Marvin Gasster acting in the capacity of secretary-treasurer. Among the finest in the art were William Herwitz, George Flashenberg and Robert Langer. For excellence of delivery and all round brilliance, Bill had no peer. President Stearns, the dramatic artist, surpassed all in diction and sense of dramatic pause. Miss Hannon, director of debating and as able therein as she is in a million other spheres, and the officers arranged a series of debates. As a little variation in two debates with Arlington High, the two teams debated both the negative and affirmative of the same question.

SAGAMORE

"Fetch me a Sagamore" is the common cry of all Brookline High School sophistates. They like the news which fairly sizzles in their fingers, they like the feature stories, and above all they like to see their names and their friends' names in print. The Sagamore is a weekly newspaper appearing every Friday and edited by a host of enterprising editors, with the aid of Miss Deal and Mr. Newsom. It covers all school activities and activities of former students to some extent. This year's biggest news events evolved around sports. Football and hockey interest was furthered by Sagamore encouragement. In fact, one of the Sagamore's best contribution to the school is the encouragement of student interest in school organizations.

LIBRARY STAFF

Mrs. Siebens and Miss La Pointe, faculty advisers to the Library Staff, may pride themselves on the democratic ways of the function.

Its members are chosen from every house, its officers elected, and its doings are most useful to the school. Besides assisting in the library, the Staff members treat the students at large to auditorium entertainment. In November, they presented a Book Week program at which Bruce Lancaster, Revolutionary War author extraordinary, spoke. A poster contest produced magnificent results on the walls outside the art room, as well as book prizes for the winners. In May, they presented a Book Review symposium in the auditorium.

The group itself meets once a month, with a literary program. With at least one hundred members on the Staff, these social get-togethers are essential. Evidently, Mrs. Siebens, Miss La Pointe, and the officers aim to please, for refreshments are served at all meetings. Margaret Dopp is President, Bryan Robeson, Vice President, Caroline Seamans, Secretary, Ann McGrath, Treasurer, and Spencer Partridge, representative of Lincoln House.

GIRL SCOUT MARINERS

Although the sailors of the good ship Westward Ho! cannot boast of having obtained their A. B. papers, or, for that matter, having hardly ever set sail on the briny blue, they nevertheless can boast of knowing everything from making a fishnet to the proper riding lights. These doughty denizens of the deep are no landlubbers, at least in theory; they can name the parts and rigging of a ship faster than a dolphin can flick its tail. Miss Poland is the skipper of the Westward Ho!—and, be it understood, she commands a right good crew. Some of the nautical land explorations have taken these coastwise sailors to the Boston Navy Yard and Salem.

Service with a smile is the order of the day as far as the Lunchroom Staff is concerned. These behind-the-counter men and women in white aid in the serving of approximately twelve hundred starving students.

The members of the Lunchroom Staff, who are representatives of all Houses, apply for the position and are chosen according to their merit and scholastic standing. Mrs. Potter ably guides the Staff which fully appreciates her expert assistance.

FOODS CLUB

1 cup of fun

5 lbs of success

A dash of the salt of ambition

Mix well, and you have the Foods Club ably supervised by Miss South. It is impossible to keep a home, much less a community happy without good cooking. Organized in 1936, girls and boys join this club to increase their knowledge of foods and to enjoy a pleasant social hour. Membership is open to any girl or boy doing passing work in all subjects. Special trips are planned to factories which may be of interest to these future house-keepers. Members plan suggestions for parties, satisfying luncheon dishes, and clever desserts.

GLEE CLUB

No, it isn't an audition for the Metropolitan Opera. It's the Glee Club going into rehearsal with Mr. Burbank wielding the baton. This group of boys and girls gather for the sheer fun and wonderful pleasure that is obtained from singing. Once a year they present their efforts to the school in a delightful assembly. The Glee Club will always be a popular organization; the only requisites for membership being a sincere love of music and an ability to carry a tune.

ORCHESTRA

Too much praise cannot be given to Mr. Joslin for the splendid work he has accomplished in building up the orchestra. Any member of the school who plays a suitable instrument may join the school orchestra which furnishes excellent music for assemblies. The special musical assembly featuring the orchestra will long be remembered as an outstanding event of the school year. Much credit also goes to Mr. Joslin and the members of the orchestra for the fine programs they have presented over the "ether waves."

ORPHEUS ENSEMBLE

The Orpheus Ensemble is a most interesting group of the outstanding musicians at Brookline High School. Mr. Joslin invites the most proficient players into this exclusive club where all enjoy inspiring talks on current music and musicians. With a mutual love for and appreciation of the finest in life, the hours spent together thus will ever be a most treasured memory.

The Orpheus Ensemble is most generous with its talents. After much assiduous practice, and very often an impeccable degree of proficiency has been attained, the Ensemble gives in public at the High School Assembly a program of classical music which is greatly enjoyed.

BAND

Probably you have seen the band in their attractive uniforms at football games. In fact they express by their music the great school spirit which has pervaded Brookline High in the past year. Under the able direction of Mr. Joslin, the band furnishes the music for other school gatherings as well. They make their appearance at rallies, encouraging the melodious voices of the student body. Class Day also features the band as a prominent part of the program. Music and drill work plus an overwhelming school spirit go to make the band one of the most popular organizations.

CAMERA CLUB

The Camera Club has come into its own. As the year progressed, support of the group became better, improvement in its work more marked. Besides, the Camera Club has made definite contributions to school life in Brookline High School. In the months of April and May the members snapped pictures of numerous public activities in Brookline, construction work, for example, on some house. All these pictures of real life were presented to the civics department for its use in teaching students of Civics.

The "clicksters" held numerous meetings under the direction of President Earl Wood, and his staff of Vice President David Small, Secretary Cobin, and Treasurer Seldberg. Mr. Webber was advisor. These meetings entailed discussion on all phases of photography, and the presentation of movies, lectures, and demonstrations. A medal for outstanding service in the camera was must be given Lloyd Stanford of the Camera Club. His work was consistently good.

SCIENCE CLUB

Just as science strives to make your lives happier, so does the Science department strive to brighten the lives of its students. One of the finest offerings of the department is the Science Club. Besides providing a good time for the members, the Club stimulates in them an interest in science.

Faculty advisor, genial Mr. Cooper, and President Robert Ehrmann, Vice President John Chmielinski, Secretary Marjory Tice, Treasurer Arnold Ulin, planned and executed a very pleasant program for 1940 members. Trips to various places have proved very entertaining. The Hood Rubber Plant and a Telephone Company office on Marion Street were two visiting calls paid. Best of all was a "hot dog" feast at Hammond's Pond. Between smearing mustard and gazing through Mr. Webber's telescope at the rings of Saturn, everybody was happy. In May, Doctor Wetherford of Harvard Medical School presented to the group a talk on embryology, or the study of an organism in the early stages of development.

CHESS

The Chess Club, with an enrollment of more than fifty members and a position in the Greater Boston Chess League, has come into its own as a leader among school organizations. The interest in the Club has been marked in the past two years.

All this is with good reason, for the club offers definite opportunities to aspiring chess players for practice and competition play. Meetings every Monday in the lunchroom serve as "spring training grounds." The campaign commences with regular games against strong schools like Cambridge High and Latin, Roxbury Memorial, and Huntington School for Boys. The matches usually entail five man teams with a number of extras from each side who gain valuable experience.

Brookline's record against other schools has been consistently good. Cambridge High and Latin, boasting one of the state's strongest teams, has not fallen before the Brookline onslaught for several years. Beyond this nemesis, our team has experienced good fortune.

STAMP CLUB

Mr. Smith has guided the philatelic interests of Brookline High School for a number of years. The primary purpose of this organization is to promote interest in philately among members of the student body by means of lectures, contests, and offering opportunity for trading stamps. If, walking down the corridor, you happen to come upon a student armed with a large tome and a dreamy look in his eye, he is probably not a prospective entomologist but only a member of the Stamp Club carrying his trusty stamp album and thinking of the stamps he would like to obtain. As usual, the club enjoyed hearing speakers both from within the club and from outside. Hailing Lyman Lehrburger, Morton Swartz, Lewis White and Barbara Fine as President, Vice President, Treasurer, and Secretary, respectively, the club held several contests, among which was one to determine the best frames made on any philatelic subject. The Stamp Club hands over to its next year's members a file of clippings on philately which has been recently donated.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

Girls giving parties; girls making scrapbooks; girls stuffing oil-cloth animals; over 500 girls helping others and enjoying it immensely. What good would democracy be if people did not help their neighbors and cooperate with them? The Girls' League fosters cooperation and aids in bringing out the qualities of leadership in the girls by organizing committees and having the girls elect chairmen. The varied program of the League is carried on under the guiding influence of Miss Sawyer and the other faculty advisers. The Senior Advisers guide the poor benighted freshmen while the Home Room Representatives keep their rooms informed on League activities. The Advisory Council passes judgment on many important measures. It would be impossible to conceive of Brookline High without the Girls' League, which is proud of the fact that it "helps others to help themselves."

THE BOYS' CLUB

This all-masculine organization was the brain child of Ed Frank, its president two years running. With Mr. Flemings as adviser, the Club is rollicking along with approximately two hundred members. Anyone from the three lower houses may join. Other officers are Toby Berman of Shailer House, vice president, Gerry Gillerman of Roberts, secretary, and Fred Holton of Roberts, treasurer. One can easily guess that the outfit is promoted to further friendship and diversion among the boys. Bowlers and ping-pong artists in the Boys' Club "don't take nuthin' from nobody." A ball club has also been initiated. The Muses have their fling in the dramatic presentations made in the many meetings. On the whole the Boys' Club, under the influence of the irrepressible Mr. Flemings, is a rough and tough, happy-go-lucky outfit that deals out the fun all around.

PRIZE SPEAKING

Eagerly anticipated is that outstanding event of every year, the Prize Speaking Competition. James Murray Kay, a public spirited Brookline Citizen, bequeathed the sum of $1,000 to provide awards for excellence in composition and for proficiency in declamation and recitation.

Friday evening, April 11, 1940, was an eventful night for the contestants. After noteworthy efforts, applauded by an admiring audience, the contestants awaited the decision of the judges. Norman Stearns won the boys' competition, giving a selection from Dickens' A Tale of Two Cities. Shirley Gruber was presented the award for the girls. Her fine delivery of a selection from G. B. Shaw's Pygmalion was indeed masterful. Honorable mention was given Helen Bracken, Elaine Penn, and Edwin Frank.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY

Membership in the Dramatic Society is limited to outstanding students in the speech classes. However, many enthusiastic members are enrolled each year. With Miss Hannon as Faculty Adviser, the organization exists to give increased opportunity for acting before an audience, and to produce plays for the joy of working together for an artistic performance. The Stage and Executive Staff, headed by Robert White, works in coordination with the Dramatic Society. The whole school certainly appreciates the fine piece of work that this group has accomplished in being on hand for every assembly this year. Due to the illness of Miss Hannon, these two organizations were unable to present the usual long production for which they are noted. However, Earle Hoffman, the President of the Dramatic Society, and Jack Dreyfuss, the Secretary-Treasurer, arranged interesting meetings for the members.

ALPHA PI

The fine name of the Honorary Society has been handed down untarnished for 25 years now, ever since it was established by its faculty adviser, Mr. Snow. Alpha Pi is a goal for which all students strive. It combines literary skill and physical prowess. The boy or girl seeking admission must not only have attained his points in scholarship, but he must also have gained his credits for extracurricular activities. The president and secretary of the society are the two members who have the largest number of points at the beginning of their senior year. This year George Hibbard served in the presidential capacity while Claire Caverly acted as Secretary.

The name Alpha Pi stands for two Greek nouns meaning leadership and excellence, and represents the best ideals and standards attainable.

MARSHAL FORCE

If a democracy wishes to exist, law and order must be obtained. Thus, the Marshal Force acts as the law enforcing body in the Student Government of Brookline High School. Elected at the end of each year by the entire student body, the marshals sport red and blue bands on their arms and help mostly in guiding traffic in the corridors. Aided by the faculty adviser, Mr. Bates, the Marshals try to encourage the students to keep the building clean and reduce noise and confusion to a minimum. The Marshals are often called on (in an emergency) to take a teacher's place, or to take charge of a study room. Captained this year by Edward Gill, the Marshal Force obtained order and cleanliness in the lunchroom by bringing the law breakers before the Court of Justice. A two week sentence to lunchroom clean-up helped impress upon the minds of these unfortunates the necessity of keeping the lunchroom clean.

SCHOOL COUNCIL

Our Student Government is modeled after the government of the United States, having three main divisions: legislative, judicial, and executive.

The School Council is the legislative body of the school. Its great purpose is an endeavor to make Brookline High School a leader in culture, refinement, self-discipline, and scholastic attainment. The student members of this body consist of the presidents of all the houses, a representative elected from each house, and the captain of marshals. The teachers elect five of their number to represent the faculty. Every conceivable matter aiming toward the improvement of the school is taken up and discussed with the utmost freedom by teacher and student alike. Here the faculty member and student representative meet on an equal footing each having one vote, each having equal opportunity to express his opinions.

COURT OF JUSTICE

Acting as the judicial branch of the Student Government, the Court of Justice is the law interpreting and administering body of the school. It passes final judgment on all cases brought to the attention of the student body, being composed entirely of students, assisted by Mr. Roman, the faculty adviser. Its student members are the president and an elected Marshal from each house, the captain of Marshals, and a Chief Justice, this year's being elected by the school at large. The chief aim of the court is to make the wrong-doer see his error, instill in him a respect for authority, and to make the punishment fit the crime. Since the student is judged by his schoolmates, he may feel that he has received fair treatment from fellow-students who are in a position to appreciate his viewpoint.

ROOM NO. 102
PART OF BANKING ACTIVITY

DAY TOMORROW

Banking

Save for travel! Save for further education! Whatever you do, save! This forever will be the motto of the school bank, wisely guided into the channels of thrift by Mr. Blanchard.

Brookline High pupils are becoming thriftier and learning the fine art of banking by actual practice. The banking system is one of the many school activities largely carried on by the students. Monday and Tuesday mornings have seen Claire Caverly in room 203 starting the messengers to their rooms and checking on deposit records. Melvin Davis, George Flessas, Helen Bracken, Margaret Dopp, and Peter Powers solved individual house problems, while Hayden Ringer was always on hand to fill in for an absent messenger. Innumerable others have collected money, checked books, and drawn charts, all doing their part towards thriftier, more stable citizens.

Red Cross

"Just a penny more from each of you! Just one penny. That's it." With such personal salesmanship, Bill Herwitz, President of the Red Cross, coerced, pleaded, and achieved his aim in persuading the homerooms to increase their annual contributions. Meanwhile, "Honest Jim" Shanahan was the custodian of the shekels, spending many lonesome hours adding disgusting long columns of figures or rushing madly to the bank before three o'clock with his precious load. Herbert Ellis and Theodore Parkins also ably helped in keeping Brookline High School among the leaders in the Boston Metropolitan Chapter. Of course, the Red Cross would lose its inspiration without the dominating figure of Mr. Friedland heading one of those "last drives" or glaring at some unfortunate student without a red and white pin. Each student is expected to contribute, no matter how small the sum may be. The Red Cross organization at Brookline High School well lives up to the motto: "I serve."

GIRL SCOUTS

The women of today play a leading part in our democracy. In order to do this adequately, they must learn how to be good citizens. The Girl Scouts are justly proud of the fact that the training given the girls makes them ready to take their places in society. They possess the fine ideals of character and leadership so necessary in this world. However, the whole Girl Scout program is not character building, although this plays an intrinsic part. Under the able leadership of Miss Nichols and Miss Bruce, the girls receive valuable information in appreciation of Nature and in the evaluation of national and international relations. Most important of all, the Girl Scouts learn to have a broader outlook on life and appreciate the other man's point of view.

CHORAL READING

For enjoyment and greater appreciation of poetry and drama, Mr. Flemings has successfully conducted the Choral Reading Society. This group, composed of about 2-3 girls and 1-3 boys, entertained the school in the Christmas assembly. Here everyone in the student body was able to witness the good work of this organization which reverences the finer portions of English literature by its excellent interpretations of it.

FOOTBALL

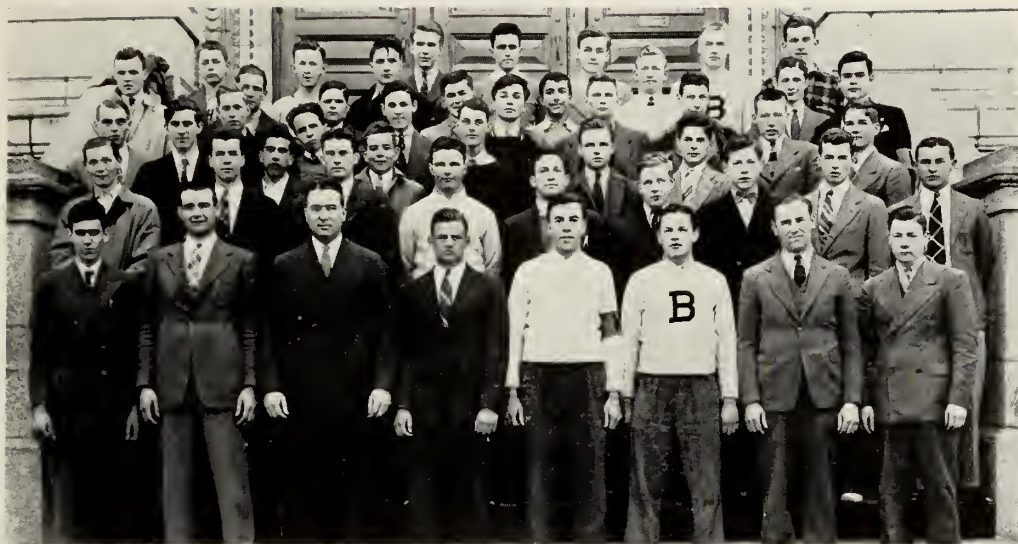

The 1939 Brookline High School football team, pride of Brookline, Class B champions, conquerors of Newton, with a record of seven wins, one loss, one tie, saviours of a moldering school spirit, will be immemorable. As such, each player deserves special recognition and praise.

Co-captains Bob Carroll and Leo Gulley backed up the line at quarterback and center. Both were inspirations to the team, playing brilliant ball defensively. Bob's kicking and running was remarkable. Leo, as center, was the most important defensive man on the team. Against Winthrop, this roving center intercepted a pass and ran 80 yards for a score. Gundy Korrane, end, and Ed Nixon, tackle, were All-Scholastic twins. Korrane was usually avoided by opposing backs who respected his flashing play. Typifying the team spirit was Ed Nixon's crashing tackle play and also the finest exhibition of place kicking in the schoolboy year. At guard slots were Max Montgomery and George Hibbard, a very brainy lineman. Young and powerful Bill Bohn and steady Arnie Frye alternated at right tackle. Excelling in catching passes was right end George Melville. Other ends were Dick McLaughlin, of outstanding ability, the spirited and rugged Hayden Ringer, and speedy Jim Argus. Other reserves were Joe Duffy and Jim Feinberg who split the guard post when Hibbard was injured. Jim McDonnell, "Skinney" Graham, John McGarry, George Harris, Jim Ford, and Ed Dillon also saw service. Great credit must be given to the reserves who played steady, even football while in there.

Dangerous backs were numerous. The Kelley's, Frank, Jim and Stanton, were the main cogs in the attack. Frank threw six touchdown passes. Jim tore off sensational runbacks of punts. Stan was the team's climax runner. Three fullbacks with terrific power were Charlie Smyrnios, Charlie Taggart, and Vin Leahy. Triple threat Joe Sutherland and fiery Norrie MacPhee rounded out the backfield. Joe flung a touchdown pass in the Fitchburg game, while in the 13-6 win over Boston Latin, MacPhee caught a touchdown pass from Frank Kelly.

Coach Harry Downes molded a team with a huge powerful line backed by capable reserves, a backfield of some eight or nine specialists, and above all a team with fight and confidence. Best of all, it infused an unmistakable school spirit into B. H. S. students and teachers.

TOUCHDOWN CLUB

The Touchdown Club, football coach Harry Downes' invention, dedicated itself and its founding to a "revitalization" of football in Brookline High School. The purpose of the Club has been realized far beyond every expectation. Each member of the organization knows that he has been an important cog in the "revitalization" not only of football, but especially of school spirit at this high school. These members have at some time played football for Brookline, either as freshmen, jayvees, or varsity men. The respective managers have offered tremendous aid to our football teams and earned their membership in this Touchdown Club.

All scholastic president "Gundy" Kirrane, center, Leo Gulley, popular little Ed Moran, and backfield stars Bob Carroll and Jim Kelley, rounded out the staff of club officers for 1939 and 1940. Featuring one of the meetings was the American League baseball film, "Touching All Bases," and the great football coach Bill Ohrenburger of Boston English, as speaker.

TRACK 1940

Brookline High's Track team completed a fairly successful indoor track season, with a record of three wins, two losses, and seventh place in the Annual State Meet. The usual strenuous schedule was considerably eased by the dropping of all state competitions (The Andover Interscholastics, Easter Seaboard Relays, Dartmouth Interscholastics, Northeastern Interscholastics) from the winter track schedule.

Coaches Gould and Weygant moulded a well balanced track team for the '39 and '40 season. Some of the trackmen had previously conditioned themselves running for the cross-country team. The first meet, with Lynn English on their boards, resulted in a Lynn English victory, 41 to 36. Unaccustomed to the steep turns, the Brookliners did remarkably well. The result hinged on the relay, the last event of the day. Lynn won it by a foot. In this meet, Bill Finnerty ran a fast 300 for that dead track and won a 44.5 s. race. Hurdling in his first meet, Stan Kelley won his event, surviving his qualifying heat and the finals. Gene Spector, the team's most consistent point getter, copped the standing broad jump. Six days later Brookline met an enigmatic Arlington track team and romped 49½ to 13½. Gene Spector led in points, winning both broad jump and 40 yd. dash, Carreiro tried for the high jump at 5ft. 7in. Reliable Finnerty won the 300 at 36.6s., with running mate Fogarty placing second. Ed Gill ran the 600 in 1:23.8, and his pal Dave Feingold followed him in second place. Jim Fillman ran a 2:36.6 1000 to win, and Stan Spector, Brookline's prize package, heaved the shot 41ft. 8½in. for a first. A week later, on February 1, the Brookliners continued their winning ways, trampling Milton 49-19. Fogarty, Spector, Fillman, Davin, Shanahan, Hickey, and Merrick all starred. On February 7 the usual powerful Newton team overwhelmed the Weygant outfit 62 1/5 to 14 5/6. It was a sorry defeat but by no means a sorry performance. Many of the events were close and hard fought. In the 600 Dave Feingold was nosed out by the great pair of Hall and Ross. The dash was the one event Newton swept but it picked up six points in the hurdles, six in the 300, eight in the 600, eight in the 1000, eight in the shot put, five in the broad jump, seven in the high jump, and five in the relay. Shanahan in the hurdles, Finnerty in the 300, Feingold in the 600, Davin in the 1000, Sedlis in the shot put, Spector and Merrick in the broad jump, and Carreiro in the high jump, gained Brookline's fourteen points. There was no doubt which was the superior team in the Brookline-Newton meet.

The final meet resulted in a runaway 58 1/6 to 13 5/6 win for our team over a weak Watertown outfit. The Annual State meet on February 24 found Brookline finishing in seventh place thanks to a first place in the broad jump by Gene Spector who beat the best in the state, a third in the hurdles to Jim Shanahan which established him as a hurdler of all scholastic caliber, and a good performance by the relay team of Ed Gill, Warren Fogarty, Bill Finnerty and Dave Feingold. Dave ran also in the 600, and though he didn't place, ran an excellent 1.20:9.

Spring track opened the first of April and the team was classified as having very good possibilities.

HOCKEY

Mr. Bates' bruising Brookline hockey powerhouse won the Eastern Massachusetts Hockey League crown with a record of six wins, one loss, and three ties, and removed, at last, painful memories of the hard luck '38-'39 campaign. Offensively, it was the best in the league, scoring 27 goals in 10 games. Exponents of the "streamline" attack, Brookline packed the opponents' end and set up scoring shots in true N. Y. Ranger style. Like the Rangers, too, there was plenty of team balance. The first line of Connolly at center, and Sutherland and Powers, wings, scored nine goals. The high scoring wave of McLaughlin, Kirrane, and Driscoll, plunked in sixteen, while the third line of Jellison, Murphy, and Messitt, was the smoothest passing wave. Possessed with a hard shot, great stickhandling and play-making ability, Gundy Kirrane led the scorers with fifteen points, twelve goals and three assists. In a tie for twelfth were George Powers, 5 and 1, and "Babe" Driscoll, 3 and 3. Close behind them was Hank Connolly with five points. Joe Sutherland was the most improved player on the team, playing his first year of hockey for Brookline. Back at left defense was the Eddie Shore of the circuit, Leo Gulley. Tops defensively, he was a fourth forward on offense. The right defense post was hotly contested. Bud Ingalls played regularly, with Bob Carroll, Brian Robeson, Jim McDonnell, and Frank Kelley, relieving. Guarding the nets were George Hibbard, Jim Drohan, and Jake Indursky. When Hibbard injured himself, Drohan went in and made some of the best saves made on the Arena ice this season. The Eastern League vs. Bay State All-Star Game resulted in a 4 to 1 win for the Bay Staters. Kirrane, Connolly, Powers, Gulley, and Hibbard, represented Brookline. The "Squad B" game result was reversed, however. Led by Joe Sutherland of Brookline, who notched a goal and assist, they shut out the Bay State second team 4 to 0.

BASKETBALL

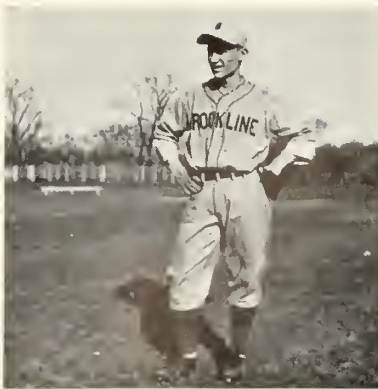

Hope sprung eternal in the breasts of B. H. S. basketball followers before the start of the basketball season. Coach MacDonald had molded a smoothly passing outfit, with two tough guards in Ed Nixon and Jim Kelly, along with the sparkling Eddie Meehan, the high scoring Robert Kaplan, and two lanky centers, Lou Stoia and Tom Devlin, dangerous on rebound and close-up shots. The attack was to center around these last two mentioned and to capitalize on their scoring ability. The reserves were composed of the courageous "Si" Davidoff, eagle-eye Vin Lally, the speedy Jim Argus, Bill Maynard, fightin' Bob Mooney, and the very dependable Joe Mahoney.

Opening the season with a 29 to 17 win over a Needham team which was Tech Tournament material in '39, the Brookline quintet had reason to expect a good season. But the team, showing at times sparks of brilliance and perfection that betook a state champion, was overpowered by a losing streak of seven games from Jan. 12 to Feb. 2. The team finished the season with a record of three wins and seven defeats in Suburban League competition. Its record, including exhibition games, was five wins and eleven losses. Yet opponents could outscore Brookline by but 52 points over a sixteen game schedule. Thus the average difference over this span was 3.25 points per game. Brookline averaged 24.3 points a game. Bob Kaplan led the team in scoring, followed by Ed Meehan.

The victory of Brookline over Newton on Feb. 13 by a 26 to 19 score stands out as one of the greatest feats in B. H. S. sports history for the past year. In this game, Brookline reached a brilliance in team work which completely baffled the Suburban League champions. The passing was fast, sharp, and clean. It was a truly remarkable exhibition of basketball, and a memorable one.

BASEBALL

On Monday, April 8, 1940, B. H. S. baseball candidates held their first official practice. The batterymen had already been working out for some weeks previous. Going out on a limb then meant a sure fall for any Suburban League expert. However, on paper, the Brookline outfit looked strong. The infield, containing no great hitting strength, was a smooth working unit, on paper. In the outfield there was tremendous batting power, and the catching department was well stocked with smart men. The pitching staff was the principal question mark, and the so-called experts were sure that this particular department would be Coach Fitzgerald's biggest headache.

A likely infield had Hal Silverman at first, Ed Riley at second, Joe Sutherland at short, and Vin Lally at third. Jim Love, Vin Leahy, W. Connolly, and Bagley were reserves. Of all these players, Sutherland and Lally were the only varsity hold-overs from 1939. Sutherland was a fine fielding shortstop, and Lally had the arm of a Jim Tabor.

The outfield was pretty well settled. "Babe" Driscoll, Leo Gully, and Jim Kelly, all with varsity experience, were expected to hold down regular jobs. It was a hard hitting trio, and Kelly especially possessed all-round ability, offensively and defensively.

Behind the plate Bob Jacobs, barring accidents, was certain to start as a regular. "Jake" was a slick fielding backstopper, and an improvement in hitting would make him a star.

Now to the pitching, said to be anywhere from fifty to seventy-five per cent of a ball club's strength. Without pitching, pennants are lost. "Duke" Mason, a cagy southpaw, was the team's ace hurler.

SWIMMING

The swimming team of Brookline High School, ably coached by John Coutts and captained by Richard McKenzie, began its official year by downing Huntington to the tune of 37 to 29. The meet, although not a hard one, gave the mermen an optimistic outlook. However, it brought out the fact that the diving squad was extremely weak. The second meet with Watertown was another easy win. This time to a score of 13 to 53. Then came the first hard contest and the first loss. The swimmers were trimmed 42 to 24 by Brockton. On the first trip away from home, Worcester Academy swamped the Brookline fishes 52 to 14. At the Harvard, Huntington, Brookline meet, our boys came in second place by but one point. The last contest was with the M. I. T. boys. The Brookline boys had the lead up to the diving. Then, the Tech lads sprang forward to beat them 29 to 37.

Although the season was not entirely successful, many points go to George Harris, Stanley Muir, Richard McKenzie, Richard Grojean, and Jack Russell and a great deal of credit goes to coach John Coutts.

GOLF TEAM

Handicapped by a lack of practice, the Brookline High School golf outfit went smack into golf league competition about the first of May. A team which finished in the six-team league last year, the "Muni" men weren't expected to accomplish wonders in 1940. Affable Coach Harry Brown listed as his best material Captain Ed Murphy, of whom great things were expected, Arthur "Doc" Messitt, Mart Lally, Moran, O'Hare, and Callan. The last mentioned is a brother of the former Brookline golf-great, "Skippy" Callan. That's the way the "Spaulding Swatters" lined up the first of May. Inclement weather in April prevented much practice at the Municipal Golf Course. The game against Lexington on April 30 was postponed. In 1939 the Brown bombers opened against the same Lexington and lost five to four.

The schedule hardly favored the team. It played the first three games on unfamiliar courses in foreign bailiwicks.

To introduce a broad statement, we can say "There's nothing like golf." It reigns supreme as a health builder. The Brookliners like the warm sun and hate most missing a four foot putt.

TENNIS—1940

The 1940 tennis outfit was stocked with good netmen—as always.

The fall tournament was an early indication of the team's potent strength. The matches were hard fought, and the tournament finalists met strong opposition before they reached the last bracket.

Bob Kaplan, as successor to George Adams for the number one spot, rallied to beat team captain Bob Feinberg in the finals. Despite Kaplan's winning three sets to Feinberg's one (7-9, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2), the match might have been settled either way. It was a tough one for either man to lose.

Among the contenders were Dick McPhee, who cracked in the semi-finals before Feinberg's power, George Mahoney, Jack Craven, a surprise package in Fred Holton, "dark horse" Marv Gasster, Steve Shanley, and William Herwitz.

Jayvee tournament winner Milt Lewis and varsity winner

"Ace" Kaplan played off the championship, Kaplan winning, 7-5, 5-7, 6-1. Lewis had previously won the Jayvee crown by beating "Little Bob" Feinberg, the favorite.

Before the spring season started Coach Barnes established the following seeding.

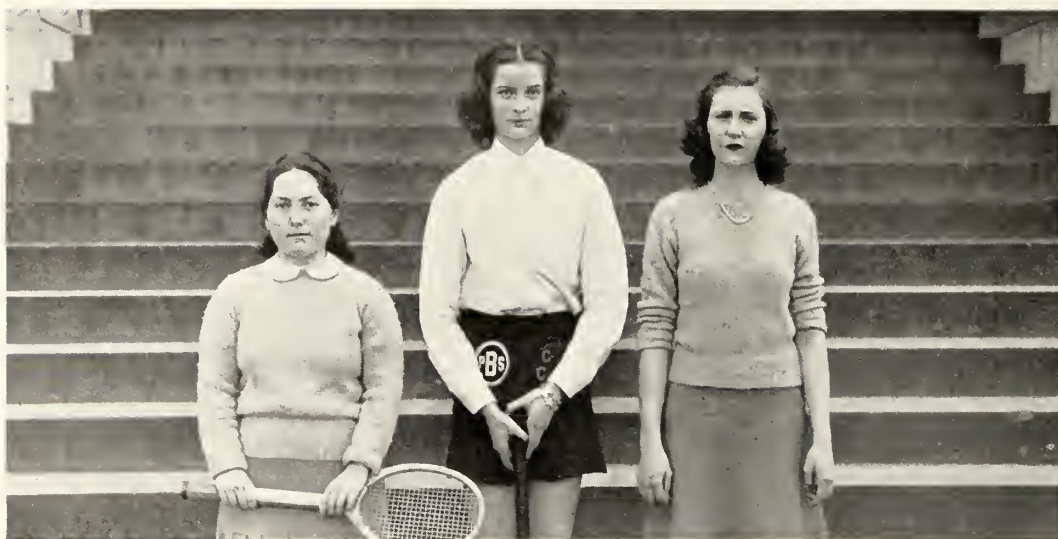

VARSITY: 1, Bob Kaplan; 2, Bob Feinberg (Capt.); 3, Dick McPhee; 4, George Mahoney; 5, Jack Craven; 6, Fred Holton; 7, Marvin Gasster; 8, Steve Shanley.

JAYVEES: 1, Milton Lewis; 2, Bob Feinberg; 3, Elliot Robinson; 4, Gerry Gillerman; 5, Alvin Finn.

With a large number of strong players, the team seemed certain to have a good season. If Kaplan failed, then there was Gasster. If Feinberg fell down, Shanley might even the score. The bottom part of the lineup had to be reckoned with. The team could be classed as an analogy of the Yankees, with a Joe Gordon batting seventh who might break up a game as readily as a Charley Keller batting third.

Mansfield Academy of Beauty Culture

The School of Recognition

An enrollment at Mansfield Academy of Beauty Culture is the stepping stone to a successful, independent and prosperous future.

A minimum of time and a low tuition rate enables the student to master the art of Beauty Culture with very little effort.

Instructors who are experts are available in both the day and evening classes.

Practical training on live models is emphasized and is combined with the required theoretical subjects, special demonstrations and lectures. Although Mansfield Academy is the oldest Beauty Culture school in New England, it has ultra modern equipment and methods. Spacious and well lighted class rooms lend a pleasant and dignified atmosphere.

Graduates of the Mansfield Academy are eligible for the full benefits of the free placement service conducted in the school and use this means of securing a position.

The intensive practical system of training in effect at the Academy prepares the student to meet the most exacting requirements of an employer.
